A Day in the Yard with Extension Master Gardeners

Twice a year the Brunswick County Master Gardener Volunteer Association sponsors its "A Day in the Yard" course throughout the four corners of the county. Spring classes usually begin in early February. Fall classes are usually held in early September. The courses are taught by Extension Master Gardeners under the direction of Tom Woods, Extension Service Master Gardener Coordinator.

To Register, contact Tom at 910-253-2610 or email tom_woods@ncsu.edu

September 2017 Course Locations:

1. Oak Island Recreation Center, Oak Island:
   Mondays 9:00 - 11:30 a.m. starting Oct. 2nd.
2. Margaret & James Harper Jr. Library, Southport:
   Mondays 2:00 - 4:30 p.m. starting Sept. 11th.
3. Hickmans Crossroads Library, Calabash:
   Wednesdays 9:30 - 12:00 a.m. starting Sept. 6th.
4. Leland Library, Leland:
   Thursdays 9:00 - 11:30 a.m. starting Sept. 7th.

Course Topics:

Week 1 - Soil and Fertilization
Week 2 - Lawns and Irrigation
Week 3 - Woody Ornamental and Pruning
Week 4 - Annuals, Bulbs and Perennials
Week 5 - Insects and Disease
Week 6 - Vegetables, Herbs and Fruits
Week 7 - Native Landscaping

These very popular lessons are designed to provide the basic knowledge needed to maintain a home landscape including lawns, shrubs, edible flowers, herbs, vegetables and fruits in the coastal plains of North Carolina.

Cost: $85.00 for the 7-week course.
Price includes a copy of "Gardening by the Month in Coastal Carolina," a publication of the Brunswick County Master Gardener Volunteer Association. This book was updated in January of 2017. Funds are used to promote research-based horticulture practices in Brunswick County and to assist in designing and maintaining portions of the Brunswick County Botanical Gardens in Bolivia.